13:00-18:00--Qinyang Palace, Jinli Old Street, The Kuan Alley and Zhai Alley, and Qintai Street

Qinyang Palace is the oldest and largest Taoist temple in the Southwest of China. It is situated in the western portion of Chengdu City. Originally built in the early Tang Dynasty (618-907), this temple has been rebuilt and repaired many times. The existing buildings were mostly built during The Qing Dynasty (1644-1911). According to legend, it was said to be the birth place of the founder of Taoism, Lao Tsu, and is where he made the first sermon about Taoism. And it is regarded as a cultural and historical site of great importance in Chengdu.

"Jinli" is a rebuilt trading and folk art street imitating the ancient-style buildings in West Sichuan. "Jinli" is the name of an old street in Han-dynasty Chengdu, meaning "make perfection still more perfect and hide the universe in the universe". The ancient Jinli was one of the oldest and the most commercialized streets in the history of West Shu and had been well-known throughout the country in Qin, Han, and Three Kingdoms Periods

Being in the list of Chengdu Historical and Cultural Protection Project, Broad and Narrow Alley is composed of broad alley, narrow alley and across alleys, among which, there are a lot of traditional courtyards, or Siheyuan. After its reconstruction, the Broad and Narrow Alley has been reopened to public and is now, one of the hottest tourist destination in Chengdu

Qintai Road is a famous scenic spot in Chengdu, the reason why it is the Chengdu scenery, not only in its row upon row of red brick and blue tiles, but also deep human feelings.

18:30--Ends at Tibet Hotel Chengdu
